GREYHAWK North America, LLC. Ranked #36 on “Hot Firm 2004 List”

August 2004 - With gross revenues nearly tripling from 2000 to 2003, Greyhawk has more than survived the sometimes unpredictable construction industry and has entered new markets. Which is why Zweig-White has once again placed Greyhawk on its list of the nation’s 100 fastest-growing architecture, engineering, and environmental consulting firms. Ranking at #36 (out of 100) – up from #82 in 2001, it is the firm’s fourth consecutive year on the list.

“This has always been a competitive industry,” said Gary Berman, Greyhawk’s President and CEO. “But after 9/11, many of our competitors were laying off employees, closing their doors, and projects that were slated to begin were being altogether eliminated. It was clear that this would become a matter of ‘survival of the fittest,’ and that we had to focus our efforts in order to endure.”

The firm is now managing the construction of such high-profile assignments as the restoration of the landmark Brooklyn Academy of Music in New York City, which was recently awarded McGraw-Hill’s ‘Restoration Project of the Year’; Nassau County’s Building Consolidation Program on Long Island, New York; $200-million of school construction in the Abbott Schools Program in New Jersey; and large-scale fire station and library construction programs throughout the City of Houston.

The Zweig-White Hot Firm list, which compiles data from hundreds of firms across the nation, is based on a firm’s growth over the past three years. Stated revenue figures are verified using financial statements or income tax returns reviewed by third parties. Dollar and percentage growth are weighed equally to give both small and large firms an opportunity to make the list.
