BROOKLYN ACADEMY OF MUSIC
CONTUNUES RESTORATION EFFORTS
GREYHAWK IS SELECTED AGAIN AS CONSTRUCTION MANAGER

Woodbury, NY - Greyhawk North America, LLC is overseeing the second phase of restoration work for the largest and oldest Academy of Music in the United States, the renowned Brooklyn Academy of Music, originally completed in 1907. Greyhawk, as construction manager, just completed the Phase I exterior restoration work which was awarded Restoration Project of the Year by McGraw-Hill.

The second phase of restoration work will include according to Greyhawk Project Manager Mike Mirisola, "significant replacements, upgrades, restorations and new construction in the main building, Opera House and the Harvey Theatre. Components of this work will address issues with electrical power, HVAC systems, roofs, freight systems, ceilings, fly systems, sound systems, fire curtains, fall arrest systems, lobby and crew rooms, and construction of the Cinema Café." According to Peter Gee, CFO and Vice President of Operations at BAM, Greyhawk was selected because they are a "company that has consistently demonstrated a superior level of professionalism, expertise, and responsiveness and they were instrumental in accomplishing our goals on the first phase of our program."

According to Brooklyn resident and Greyhawk Senior Principal Frank Manzo, "the October 24, 2004 celebration, re-dedicating the Academy of Music, was a lively party culminated with a ribbon-cutting ceremony renaming the 30 Lafayette Avenue building after a new benefactor. The custom-made cake in the shape of the Academy and the live music was a highlight for the thousands of attendees."

About Greyhawk

Founded by construction industry veterans, Greyhawk, a construction management and consulting firm, is one of the few companies that remain 100-percent employee-owned and operated. With nearly 100 employees, offices in New York, New Jersey and Texas, and approximately 200 projects currently active, Inc. magazine touted us as one of the fastest-growing companies in America. Long Island Business News recently put us on their list of the Top 25 Fastest-Growing Companies, while Zweig White, an international construction think-tank, placed Greyhawk on its published "Hot Firm 100" list for the last four years. www.greyhawk.com.
